Another Point of View

Consumer Provocation Index Rises!

By Lawrence Moore

CPI, the recently created Consumer Provocation Index, is on the move...UP! Unlike the Consumer Price Index, this one never goes down. How can it, when the components continue unmitigated, and when new components surface with unrelenting regularity.

Of all the provocations with which we are doomed to be afflicted, none will have a more profound effect than the search for a Universal Health Care plan. It just is not possible to provide medical service to 37 million uninsured without new broadly financed mega-dollars.

Granted our present system is costly. It also delivers, by any comparison, superb care to those it serves. Can it be improved without drastic surgery? It is being improved. Witness the changes in the pharmaceutical industry: declarations of cost-restraint, consolidations and mergers. Witness the changes in the hospital structure locally: the reorganization of Hahnemann and Memorial, the new specialization of Doctors and Fairlawn. Witness the changes in Southern Worcester County, and in Boston: the just announced merger of Mass General and Brigham/Women's.

Just as video game manufacturers offered to finesse the government on the sex and violence content of their games, so medical providers will take steps to reduce criticism aimed at them. Public pressure in a free society begets action, in a socialized society it is ignored.

In a California survey of cardiac care, it was found that Medicaid patients got less care that HMO patients, who got less care than private-pay patients. The waiting list stories that come out of Canada and Europe affirm the inevitable rationing of socialized care.

Cost analyses of the current administration plan promise no savings overall and warn of possible increases for those who can afford to pay. Whether the employer or the employee pays premiums, the well-off will eventually pay more than they are paying today, either in premiums or in cost-of-living escalation. How can this not be when the government (the people) plans to subsidize small companies, early retirees and, among others, the 37 million not now insured?

Should those who can afford to pay subsidize those who cannot pay? In order to provide care and cover costs, the administration plan will almost certainly deliver a reduced level of care to all, penalizing those who can pay and presently get good treatment, and subsidizing those who cannot pay. For instance, present practice provides to the indigent, emergency room services that are subsidized by higher prices charged to those who pay. That is manifestly unfair.

Should we deny care to the uninsured and to those who cannot pay? Associated with the welfare system should be a nationwide system of welfare clinics, streamlined and efficient, paid for by Health Stamps, as is food with Food Stamps. Service the uninsured inexpensively, and pressure the pay-for-service sector to get its house in order, unencumbered by non-paying clients. Thus will be controlled one component of the Consumer Provocation Index.

Nominations Sought

WORCESTER - The YWCA of Central Massachusetts has announced the creation of the Katharine Erskine Award which will be presented to three women in the Worcester area this coming spring. The award will be presented to women working in three specific fields, that of science or medicine, business or law and arts or humanities.

The criteria for nominations include: distinction in their field, recognition by their peers, clear evidence in supporting the role of women and girls in leadership positions and a commitment to the goals and purposes of the YWCA. The persons nominated need not be members of the YWCA and they will be selected by expertise in the three designated categories. Selection will not be based on the number of nominations, but rather on the merit of the individual. Nomination forms can be obtained by calling Joyce Prouty, Public Relations Coordinator, at 791-3181.

DEADLINE

The DEADLINE for all submissions to the Millbury-Sutton Chronicle is Saturday noon of the week prior to publication. The office is closed to the public on Saturdays but announcements, subscription renewals and classifieds may be left in the mailbox at the side entrance.

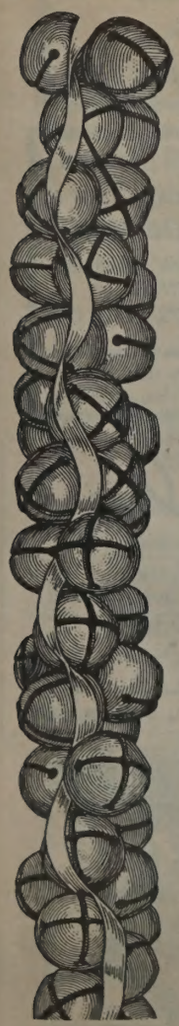
Mental illness has warning signs, too.

If the press didn't tell us - who would?



Their first step is the most important.

1st step

We all share the same goal for our children—to make their lives richer than our own. This important goal has become increasingly difficult because the cost of everything has risen faster than our ability to plan for the future. That is why Fidelity Co-operative Bank has designed a unique savings plan that should become an important part of planning for the next generation.

INTRODUCING THE FIDELITY FIRST STEP SAVINGS ACCOUNT

Whether your children's plans include college, a new home, or even starting a business, the Fidelity First Step Savings Account will help those plans become reality. This innovative savings program begins with an interest rate that is higher than a regular passbook savings account, and the rate actually increases as balances grow. So, the more you save, the more they earn!

A special feature of this account includes contribution certificates that may be given to family and friends who want to help ensure that your child gets that important head start in life. These attractive certificates take the guesswork out of gift-giving at Christmas, Hanukkah, birthdays, graduations, and other special occasions.

The Fidelity First Step Saving Account is smart, convenient, and easy to open.Call or stop in at any Fidelity Co-operative Bank office for details.

Beacon Hill Roll Call

BOSTON - This week's "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records the votes of Senator Matthew Amorello (R-Grafton) and Representatives Richard Moore (D-Uxbridge) and Paul Kollios (D-Millbury) on roll calls from the week of December 13-24.

PRIVATIZATION VETO (S 1664) House 113-38, Senate 29-10, overrode Governor Weld's veto and approved the bill restricting the power of the Weld administration to privatize state services. Bill supporters said the measure allows privatization which saves money but still insures that state workers are protected. Bill opponents said the measure will put a virtual halt to privatization which has saved over $270 million since 1991. The bill is now law. Amorello voted against the bill; Moore and Kollios voted for the bill.

CHILD ABUSE (S 219) House 84-66, Senate 21-11, rejected Weld's amendment to a bill making physical abuse of a child under 14 a felony punishable by up to a 15 year jail sentence. Weld's amendment would exempt parents from charges of neglect if they deny their children medical treatment and choose to try faith healing based on their religious beliefs. Amendment supporters said the exemption is important to protect Christian Scientists and religious freedom. Amendment opponents said the state has an obligation to require medical treatment when the life of a child is at stake. The bill now goes back to Governor Weld. Amorello voted for the faith healing exemption; Moore and Kollios voted against the exemption.

LEAD PAINT (H 2798) House 130-16, gave near final approval and sent to the Senate a bill allowing property owners to sue four lead pigment manufacturers for the cost of lead paint removal and for injuries sustained by lead-poisoned children. Supporters said the bill will hold these companies accountable because they profited from the sale of a deadly product for decades after its harmful effects were known. Opponents said the bill will result in unprecedented lawsuits against companies which may not even be directly responsible for the lead paint in a specific building. Moore and Kollios voted for the bill allowing the suits.

CHILD SUPPORT (H 5654) House 147-0 gave near final approval and sent to the Senate a bill giving the state Department of Revenue (DOR) new powers to crack down on deadbeat parents who fail to pay child support. The 46 page measure includes provisions allowing DOR to seize lottery winnings, suspend driver's and professional licenses and review utility bills and other records of deadbeat parents who refuse to pay child support. Supporters said the bill will get thousands of families off welfare and save the state millions of dollars. Moore and Kollios voted for the bill.

GUN BAN (H 5412) House 81-68, gave near final approval and sent to the Senate a bill prohibiting anyone in Boston under 21 from owning a gun. Supporters said the ban is a major step toward getting guns out of the hands of young men and stopping increased violence and death on the streets. Opponents said this arbitrary ban does nothing to deter crime, stop gang violence or crack down on the problem of illegal guns. They argued that the few licensed gun owners under 21 are not engaged in criminal activity. Moore and Kollios voted against the ban.

SMOKING IN HOSPITALS (S 491) Senate 35-0, gave near final approval and sent to the House a bill prohibiting smoking in hospitals and other health care facilities except in designated smoking areas. The bill also prohibits smoking in all private and shared patient rooms and work areas of the facilities. Two senators voted "no" but their votes were paired under a Senate rule and are not reflected in the final tally. Supporters said the bill will limit smoking and still allow individual facilities to be totally smoke free if they choose. Opponents expressed concerns that the bill will severely restrict smoking in the Chelsea and Holyoke Soldier's homes and is unfair to many veterans who still smoke. Amorello voted for the restrictions.

CIVIL SERVICE (H 5300) Senate 32-3, overrode Governor Weld's veto reduction of funding for the Civil Service Commission from $305,689 to $211,724. Override supporters said the $93,965 must be restored to insure adequate funding. Override opponents said the state cannot afford the additional funding and warned of an unbalanced budget if overrides are successful. The House overrode the veto in October and the funding is now restored. Amorello voted for the $93,965 funding.

The Millbury Public Library starts out the New Year with three great art programs for kids. Artist and instructor Linda Freedman returns to the library's Delia Tory Room to give kids a chance to let their imaginations wander through the art and history cultures in time and place.

Kids are invited to learn how to create their own unique Native American designs in pottery, made an Eskimo animal print, and construct a pre-columbian figure. They can learn about these exciting art forms on January 8, 15 and 22. Each program will consist of a slide presentation followed by a hands-on activity resulting in a finished product.

To make these programs available to as many kids as possible, the library is offering two classes on each of the Saturdays. Children ages six to eight can attend the 10-11:30 a.m. sessions; children nine to twelve are invited to the 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. sessions.

Registration is necessary and space is limited. Kids can register for one, two or three programs. Register for individual programs by calling 865-1181 or signing up at the Children's Room desk. Registration begins the Tuesday of each program week.

This program and many, many of the other great programs would not be possible without the help of the Friends of the Millbury Public Library. Additional funding comes from the Massachusetts Arts Lottery as administered by the Millbury Arts Council.

Look for more great art in 1994 with the opening of the library's New England Art Series on January 13.

Library Hours: Tues-Thur 10-8; Fri 10-6; Sat 10-1. 865-1181

Joy of giving seen in faces of volunteers

CHRONICLE photos by Alexander A. Belisle

Donations for the Sutton baskets came from the schools, churches, and civic organizations in Sutton. The baskets were prepared for distribution by the Sutton Board of Health.

Parishioners of Assumption Church donated the items distributed with the help of Sr. Jeanne.

From My Window on Farnsworth Court

By "Pastor Rae" Cameron

The year 1993 is about to become history, and for me looking out on Farnsworth Court, it has been a good year. In my book, it will be the year that I began to collect my retirement, but was allowed by the Millbury Baptist Church to remain as their Pastor. Part of the arrangement is three months of vacation time, and my wife and I spent two of those months at our cabin on a beautiful spring-fed lake in northern Maine. It was a time of relaxing and reading, fishing and boating and swimming, chopping wood and working on the road, and enjoying each other's company and that of friends and relatives.

This was a year of good health after battling two cancers. The highlight of it was the removal of a port-a-cath where the chemicals were inserted; this meant no need of chemotherapy.

This was also the year in which my dear wife and I celebrated our 40th wedding anniversary with a wonderful reception by our church people. Many "thanks."

For our nation, this was the year of the '93 flood in the mid-west. A couple of magazines are now telling of the devastation, but also the heroism with which this disaster was handled. I remember telling you that would be the case.

Right here in our own Millbury, we will remember that this was the year that we added a beautiful bandstand with the wonderful work of volunteers. It was also the year of an 11 and 0 record for Millbury High School's football team and the winning of the super-bowl. WOW!

After the year we add the letters A.D. which mean "The year of our Lord." 1993 was another year of God's grace in which people were given another opportunity to hear the wonderful good news that God loves them and sent His Son to die in their place so that they may experience salvation from their sins, full and free. Amen.

Executive Sessions Take Over Meeting

By Edward J. Cooney

MILLBURY - It was a rerun of "Play It Again Sam" as the Board of Selectmen spent most of its December 21 meeting going in and out of closed sessions on various matters.

The meeting started out with Administrative Assistant Earl Chase giving a short report on a request for an application for a dance permit for a teen-age dance on December 31 at the Howe Ave property of the former Ballard Motors and Wheels Roller Skating Rink.

The Board approved the request for a permit on a 4-0 vote with Selectman Roland Lachance absent. It was suggested that the Police Chief be contacted as well.

Chase then reported that he had received a copy of the daily log in the Police Department that indicated a complaint was received concerning an incident where an elderly gentleman who was already intoxicated was served liquor. The Police Chief met with a principal in the establishment where the gentleman was served, Henry Donovan. It was suggested to Donovan that the bartenders be trained in dealing with that kind of a situation.

Chase reported that Representative Paul Kollios has asked to meet with the Board and two representatives from the Massachusetts Highway Department at the Board's January 4 meeting to allow the Highway representatives to make a presentation.

Board Chairman Jude Cristo asked that one hour be blocked off on the agenda so the Board can also discuss some ideas the Board has relative to highway concerns.

Under new business, the Board unanimously approved a drainlayer's license renewal for A. Amorello & Sons.

A Sunday entertainment license renewal for the Elm Draughthouse Cinema Inc. also was approved.

From 7:20 p.m. until after 9:00 p.m., the swinging door between open and closed sessions began.

At 7:20 the Board moved to closed session to discuss the strategy for salary negotiations for the appointment of David DeManche to fill Earl Chase's position. DeManche was not present at the meeting. His appointment is subject to an agreement with the Board on a starting salary.

Chase said he had twice tried to get in touch with DeManche but only reached his answering machine.

The Board returned to open session to consider an option of holding an open or closed hearing of an appeal of a disciplinary action against Police Officer Linda Burnett.

Burnett appealed the action to the Selectmen who are the Police Commissioners for the Town. No statement was made on the nature of the disciplinary action.

Cristo acknowledged the presence of the participants before the vote to move to closed session. Present were: Town Counsel for the Board and the Chief of Police, John Chinian; Officer Linda Burnett; Burnett's counsel, Attorney Susan Horowitz; Police Union representatives Glenn Parath and Tom Hall.

Cristo asked Chinian if the hearing was to be open or closed. He deferred to Burnett's Counsel who indicated her client wished the disciplinary hearing to be closed. The Board approved 5-0.

After one hour, the board returned to open session at 8:45 p.m. at which time the Police Chief Richard Handfield asked the Board to move to closed session to discuss the deployment of security personnel.

Cristo noted that the Board would not have any further public business after the closed meeting and would adjourn for the night.

Financial Aid Night

MILLBURY - With the cost of attending college soaring and the ever increasing need for post secondary education, Financial Aid becomes a necessity for most people. With the cutbacks in Federal and State funding for financial assistance, it is important to understand Financial Aid and the Financial Aid application process.

In order to help parents apply for Financial Aid, the Guidance Department at Millbury High School is sponsoring a Financial Aid Night on Thursday, January 6, at 7 p.m. in the High School cafeteria. Robert LaConto, Assistant Director of Financial Aid at Emerson College, will give an overview of Financial Aid and an in-depth explanation of how to file the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) and the Financial Aid Form (FAF). In order to get the greatest benefit from the meeting, parents are advised to review the information request on the FAF. (Seniors at Millbury High have received the form to bring to their parents.) In this manner, any questions or uncertainties can be explained by LaConto. All interested persons are invited to attend. For further information, contact Raymond Gemme at the High School Guidance Office.

CAMPAIGN FINANCE (H 5502) House 116-31, gave near final approval and sent to the Senate a 47-page bill making changes in the state's campaign finance laws. Included in the bill are provisions banning gifts from lobbyists except for up to $100 in food and beverages over one year; reducing campaign contributions by lobbyists from $1000 to $200 per year; stripping the Ethics Commission of its subpoena powers; and preventing the commission from keeping the names of informants confidential. Supporters claimed the bill is a big step toward major campaign finance reform and reducing the influence of lobbyists. Opponents said the measure drops many of the very tough reforms included in a Common Cause initiative petition which the group is hoping to place on the 1994 ballot. They argued it is a phony reform bill which is being rushed through the House. Moore voted for the bill; Kollios voted against the bill.

LIMIT CONTRIBUTIONS (H 5502) House 79-71, rejected an amendment reducing the maximum allowable annual campaign contribution by lobbyists from $1000 to $100 and by individuals from $1000 to $500. Amendment supporters said this will reduce the amount of campaign funds raised and diminish the potential influence of lobbyists. Amendment opponents said the reduction restricts the right of individual citizens to contribute and helps wealthy candidates who can finance their own campaigns. Moore and Kollios voted for the reductions.

LIMIT LOBBYISTS (H 5502) House 146-0, approved an amendment reducing from $1000 to $200 the maximum annual contribution a lobbyist can make to a campaign. Amendment supporters said this will reduce the power and influence of lobbyists.

CHECKOFF (H 5502) House 94-50, retained a proposed checkoff system allowing taxpayers on their returns to voluntarily contribute one dollar over their tax liability to be evenly divided among the state's major political parties. Check-checkoff opponents said the state has no business using its tax bureaucracy to solicit political contributions. They noted the system favors Democrats and Republicans and does not include other parties. Moore voted for the checkoff system; Kollios voted against the system.

LIMIT FUNDRAISING (h 5502) House 79-68, rejected an amendment limiting the amount of money a candidate can raise in an off-election year or rollover from one year to the next. The limits imposed are $500,000 for statewide office; $60,000 for state senate and county office; and $25,000 for state representative. Amendment supporters said this will reduce the incumbents' advantage and help give challengers equal footing. Amendment opponents said these arbitrary figures are unreasonable. Moore voted against the limits; Kollios voted for the limits.

SEAT BELTS (H 5495) House 98-49, again approved the mandatory seat belt bill imposing a $25 find on drivers and passengers over 16 who do not buckle up and an additional $25 fine to be paid by the driver for each passenger between age 12 and 16 who does not wear a seatbelt. The fine could only be imposed by police officers if the car is stopped for another violation. Supporters said the bill will save lives, prevent injuries and reduce insurance rates. Opponents said drivers should have the freedom to make their own decision and noted the voters repealed a similar law in 1986. The bill now goes back to Governor Weld who has indicated he will veto it. Moore did not vote; Kollios voted for the bill.

SEAT BELTS ON BALLOT (H 5495) House 89-57, rejected Governor Weld's amendment postponing the effective date of the seat belt bill from February 1, 1994 to March 1, 1995 and calling for a non-binding referendum on the issue next November. Amendment supporters said the law was repealed by voters in 1986 and argued it is only fair to let them express their opinion again. Amendment opponents said they oppose government by referendum and said legislators must sometimes act quickly to protect the public safety. Moore voted against the non-binding referendum. Kollios voted for the referendum.

PHARMACIES (H 5680) House 137-14, gave near final approval and sent to the Senate a bill allowing consumers to buy prescription drugs at pharmacies other than the "network pharmacies" mandated by their HMOs. Supporters said this will help local mom and pop pharmacies stay in business and also give many consumers the convenience of shopping in their own neighborhoods. Opponents said the bill is the first step toward dismantling managed care and will result in higher costs for HMOs and consumers. Moore did not vote; Kollios voted for the bill.

SENATE RULES (S 1878) Senate 26-11, approved a new set of Senate rules including a provision prohibiting the Senate President and other senators in leadership positions from serving more than eight consecutive years in those positions. Other provisions include giving senators autonomy to hire and fire staff and requiring copies of the proposed state budget to be distributed to members four days prior to consideration. Supporters said the reforms are historic ones which truly limit the power of the Senate President and make the senate more open and democratic. Opponents said the reforms do not go far enough. Amorello voted against the rules package.

30 DAY LIMIT (S 1878) Senate 26-12, retained a proposed rule requiring that the Bills in Third Reading Committee report out bills within 30 days of receipt. Supporters of the 30 day rule said this committee often unfairly kills bills by tying them up and refusing to release them. Opponents of the 30 day rule said this committee reviews hundreds of measures and often needs more than 30 days to study them. Amorello voted for requiring bills to be reported out in 30 days.

8 YEAR LIMIT (S 1878) Senate 20-16, rejected an amendment prohibiting any senator for serving as the chairman of the same committee for more than eight consecutive years. Amendment supporters said it is healthy to insure new leadership and prevent individuals from amassing excessive power. Amendment opponents claimed these chairmen have great expertise and knowledge and should not be arbitrarily limited. Amorello voted for the eight year limit.

ROLL CALL VOTE (S 1878) Senate 30-6, approved an amendment requiring that the election for Senate president be by a roll call vote on the Senate floor. Amendment supporters said voters should have the right to know who their senators choose for this powerful position. Amendment opponents said the amendment is unnecessary and noted that under current Senate rules a majority vote of senators can require such a roll call. Amorello voted for requiring a roll call.

FILIBUSTER (S 1878) Senate 26-10, eliminated a proposed rule prohibiting any senator from speaking for more than 30 minutes at a time without unanimous consent. Supporters of the 30 minute limit said it will stop filibusters and prevent one member from thwarting the will of the majority. Opponents of the 30 minute limit said arbitrary limits stifle debate and decrease the power of individual senators. Amorello voted against the 30 minute limit.

ETHICS COMMITTEE (S 1878) Senate 21-16, rejected an amendment providing that the Senate President and Minority Leader each appoint three members to the Ethics Committee. Under current rules, the Senate President appoints five members and the Minority Leader one. Amendment supporters said the Ethics Committee should be above politics and argued this equal representation will insure integrity. Amendment opponents said there has never been a problem of partisanship on the committee and argued that the change could create stalemates. Amorello voted for appointing three members each.

SCHEDULING COMMITTEE (S 1878) Senate 20-17, rejected an amendment creating a Scheduling Committee to draft a schedule of Senate sessions for the entire year. Amendment supporters said the current haphazard system of last minute scheduling is unfair and disrupts members' personal and professional lives. Opponents said the amendment is too strict and argued it is difficult to determine schedules so far in advance. Amorello voted for creating a Scheduling Committee.

65 MPH SPEED LIMIT (H 5595) Senate 25-6, gave near final approval to its own version of the House-approved bill raising the speed limit from 55 to 65 mph on I-91 from Northampton to the Vermont border and on I-95 from Danvers to Newbury. Supporters said the hike will be a convenience for motorists with little if any increase in fatalities. Opponents said the hike is irresponsible and said hikes to 65 mph in other states have resulted in increased accidents and deaths. Amorello voted for the hike to 65 mph.

COMING UP ON BEACON HILL

The House and Senate will not meet again in formal session until after the new year. Both branches are gearing up for marathon late night sessions on January 3 and 4 - the last two days of the 1993 session.

Hundreds of bills are still pending and legislators and Governor Weld are making a push to get their respective initiatives approved.

Thousand of bills are in various committees and on the calendar but most of them will die when the clock strikes midnight on the evening of January 4 and the 1993 session automatically ends.

Bill promotes public awareness and education for disaster preparedness.

BOSTON - Catastrophic events such as Hurricane Andrew and the recent Midwestern floods have raised public awareness of the role played by government in the increasingly professionalized field of emergency management. However, most emergency managers agree that public awareness efforts need to be ongoing so that people prepare for natural and technological disasters, know what to do when disaster strikes and take steps to mitigate disaster, thereby minimizing loss of life and property.

The law provides that during Emergency Management Week, public safety, emergency response and emergency management personnel will make a reasonable effort to conduct public information programs, training exercises, and other activities designed to educate and inform the public regarding the importance of preparedness for emergencies, mitigation to reduce harmful effects of natural and technological hazards and appropriate response and recovery actions in the event of emergencies in the home, workplace, neighborhood, community or region.

Massachusetts legislators have recently enacted legislation sponsored by Rep. Richard T. Moore (D-Uxbridge) specifically aimed at raising public awareness and promoting public education for disaster preparedness. The new law, singed by Governor William F. Weld, designates the second Sunday of May each year as "Massachusetts Emergency Responders Memorial Day" and the week following that Sunday as "Emergency Management Week." Coincidentally, Moore was recently nominated by President Clinton to be Associate Director of the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA).

"Recognition for those who died in the line of duty or who have worked hard during an emergency to minimize the harmful effect of a disaster on our citizens is a great idea," said A. David Rodham, Director of the Massachusetts Emergency Management Agency (MEMA).

Mass. House urges U.S. Senate to confirm Moore in Federal Post

BOSTON - The entire membership of the Massachusetts House of Representatives has officially recorded their support of the nomination of one of their colleagues to a senior position in the Clinton Administration. Daybreak seeks volunteers

WORCESTER - Daybreak Resources for Women and Children, Inc. is recruiting volunteers to assist with providing services for battered women and their children. The demand for Daybreak's services continues to increase. Each month, more than 300 women call the hotline, 50-75 women are assisted in obtaining restraining orders, 60-75 women attend support groups or receive individual safety planning and counseling, and the shelter is constantly full. The more women Daybreak services, the more the news spreads about the services, and the more women are calling for help. Daybreak is struggling to keep up with this demand.

Following is a list of the volunteer opportunities available at Daybreak:

Hotline: Provide hotline coverage by helping victims of domestic violence explore options, providing emotional support and assisting with safety planning.

Court Advocacy: Provide assistance to victims of domestic violence by accompanying them through the court process to obtain restraining orders, helping them explore legal options, and assisting them with safety planning. Daybreak is seeking volunteers to provide this service in the Worcester, Spencer, Westboro and Dudley Courts.

Shelter Children's Services: Assist the children's advocate with activity groups and support groups for children residing in Daybreak's shelter.

Community Education: assist the Community Educators to conduct training and workshops on domestic violence, child assault prevention, and related violence prevention education programs. This is the fastest growing pat of Daybreak. Many volunteers are sought in order to cover a large geographic area and training at all times of the day.

Anyone who is interested in volunteering at Daybreak should follow the following steps: Call the Daybreak office at 755-5371 to register for an information session about the opportunities listed above. The information session will be held twice on January 3. Session I will run 10-11 a.m. and Session II will run 6-7 p.m.

Those who are still interested after the information session will be scheduled for a personal interview.

School Council Meeting

SUTTON - The next meeting of the Sutton Elementary School Council will be held Wednesday, January 5, at 6:30 p.m. in the Elementary Library. The agenda provides a public forum from 6:30-6:45. All members of the community are encouraged to attend.
